Award:	Bryce Simpson Memorial Award
Award Code:	FBSM1
Catalog:	This award is in the memory of Bryce Simpson. Bryce died in a tragic automobile accident near Fort St John, at the age of 18. Bryce went through most of his school years, convinced that he could not do well and consequently, did not try very hard to succeed. In Grade 10, Bryce's parents convinced him to enroll in the dual credit Electrician program. This one little change in what and how he learned, completely, changed him. Bryce went from barely passing to a 90% average in most exams. He had finally found his life's calling! This award is given in the spirit to recognize what can happen when a student fully understands what he or she can accomplish.

Award:	Chad Simon Memorial Endowment
Award Code:	FCSM1
Catalog:	This award is in memory of Chad Simon, who was taken too soon in a tragic UTV accident in 2016. Chad was a fun-loving and charismatic person who filled up a room with his amazing personality; he had a presence about him that was generous, energetic, and genuine. Always the first person to help someone in need, Chad was willing to lend a hand in whatever way he could. He valued his family and friends as much as they valued and loved him in return. His family wishes to honor his memory through this award. Chad took the Cook program at NLC and was inspired by Chef French to go beyond to selflessly help his fellow students succeed. As Chad would say, "Good is not enough, you've got to be great!".

Award:	Duncan MacRae Endowment Fund
Award Code:	FDME1
Catalog:	This award was established by Duncan MacRae, a distinguished educator and champion of comprehensive training and education in British Columbia. MacRae came to the Peace River area in 1964 as a seed specialist for Cominco. Promotions came quickly for MacRae and in 1965 he accepted the position of district agriculturist in Dawson Creek. By 1967, his knowledge and presentation skills led him to a position as agriculture instructor at the BC Vocational School (later Northern Lights College), a program which he developed. MacRae was promoted to vice-principal in 1969 and to principal soon after. MacRae became the last principal of the Vocational School of Dawson Creek when, in 1975, the province's vocational schools were converted to community colleges. MacRae was offered the position of President of Northern Lights College but made the decision to enter the public service instead. As director of the Colleges and Technical Programs Branch of the Ministry of Education, he promoted and managed the implementation of training programs at BC's regional colleges, training institutes and university colleges. At the time of his retirement in 1997, MacRae was director of the Ministry of Education's Business and Technical Programs Branch of the Post-Secondary Career Programs Branch.
